PANTHER

Clay High School
Portsmouth, Ohio

Editors: Pamela Altman and Susie Hollis

Foreword

As 1967 draws to a close, we can pause to survey the accomplishments of the previous year. This has been a year packed with many unforgettable experiences. Each memory, happy or sad, forms an integral part of our year. We, the annual staff, have attempted to create a tangible record through word and picture. You, the students of Clay High School, shaped it, molded it, gave it life. We give you --the 1967 Panther.

In Memoriam

IN MEMORY OF JOHN

John made each day a little more bright.
He shed on everyone a warm glowing light.
John was good, he was sweet and kind,
A greater person you'd never find.

In memory he lives in the hearts of all.
The image of a boy, both great and tall.
A symbol of things both fine and good,
An example of doing the things you should.

We'll all miss John, what more can we say?
God bless his soul, he'll rest today.
Yes, John was loved by each and all
But God loved him more, for He did call.

SCHOLARSHIP AND CLASSES

The science Scholarship team takes particular interest in these three specimens. Lynn Grimshaw, Cathy McGlone, Dean Elliot, Mike Chilcote, Cathy Canter.

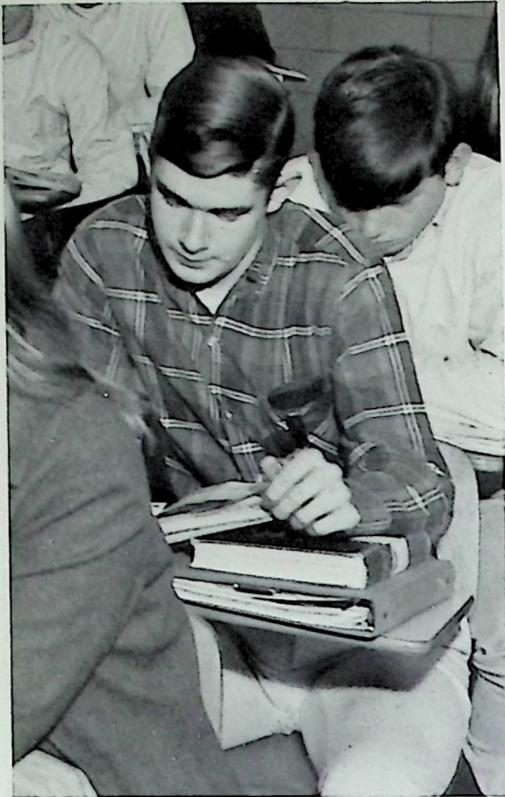

Mrs. Stillwell, carefully observes a biology experiment being performed by Susan Harrigan, Cathy McGlone, and Diana Rickey.

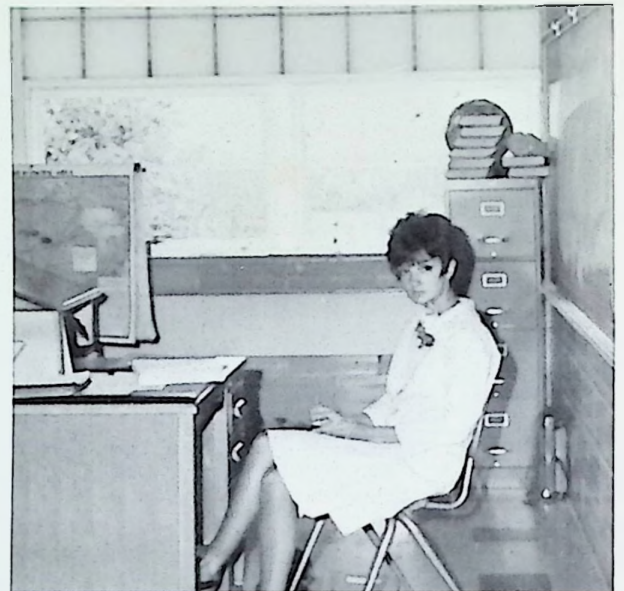

Judy Poole, Pam Altman, Steve Allen, and Mike Nance, students of Physics, illustrate the important principles of a certain experiment.

Roy Wessell, a most willing shop student, takes advantage of Mr. Moore's experience and skill.

Paul Moore, shown here in English class studied diligently all year in order to gain the title of "Most Studious." A very busy Dean Shoemaker is also shown.

Mrs. Kuhner was caught preparing for another class always looked forward to by her students.

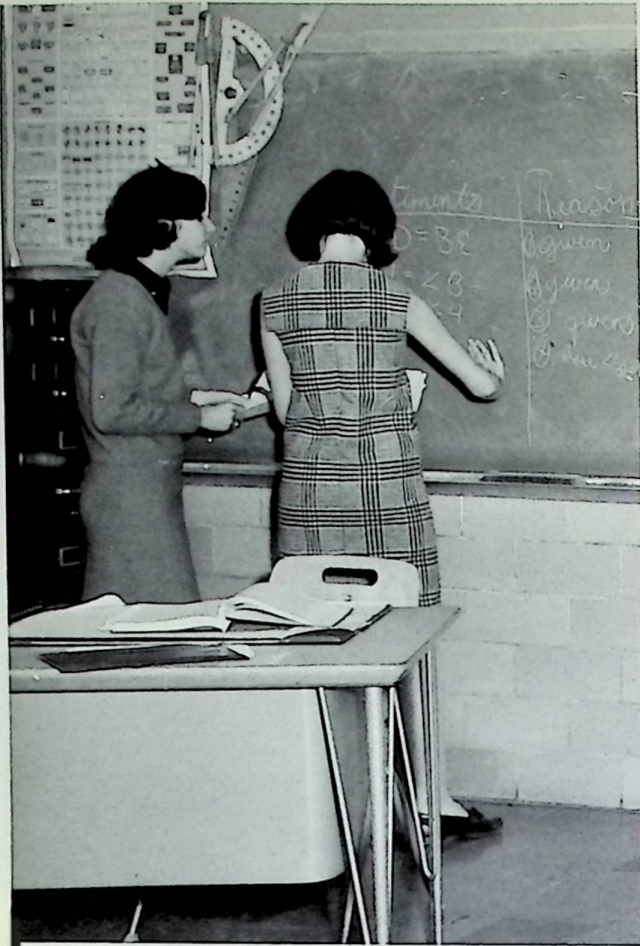

Mrs. Davis's "golden rule" must be that practice makes perfect for she turns out top students every year. Shown here is her Shorthand class intent on increasing their speed.

Sue Burks and Linda Hammond are ready for another round on the electric typewriters in the commercial room. The experience they gain is of great value.

Pam Lallow, Sandy Clark, Linda Burton, and Bev Gore make daily use of the business machines to develop skills which advance their job status for the future.

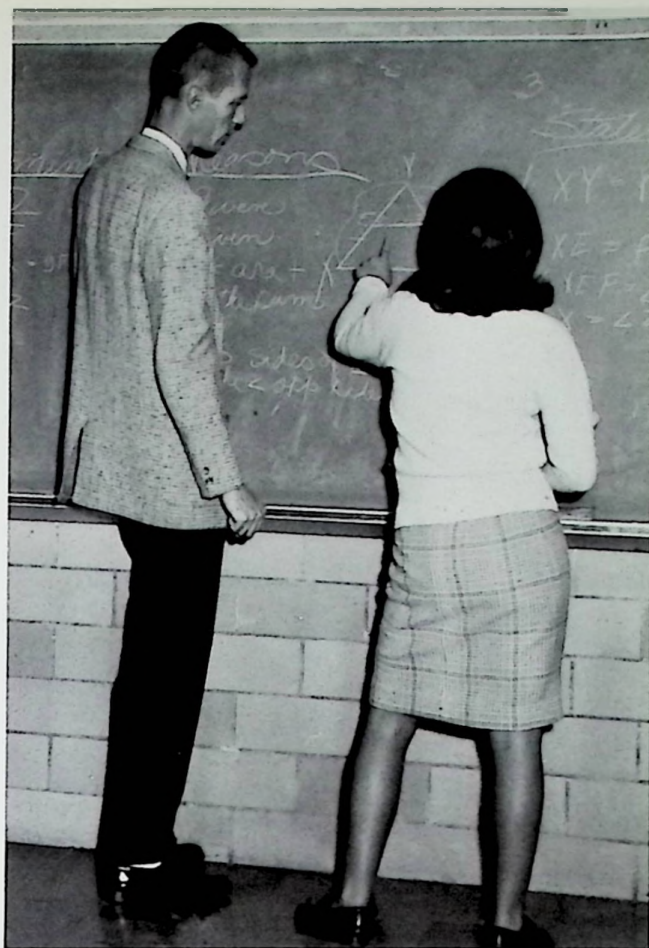

When it comes to geometry, if you don't learn the actual math part you at least learn an essential lesson in teamwork. Just ask Wilda and Bobetta.

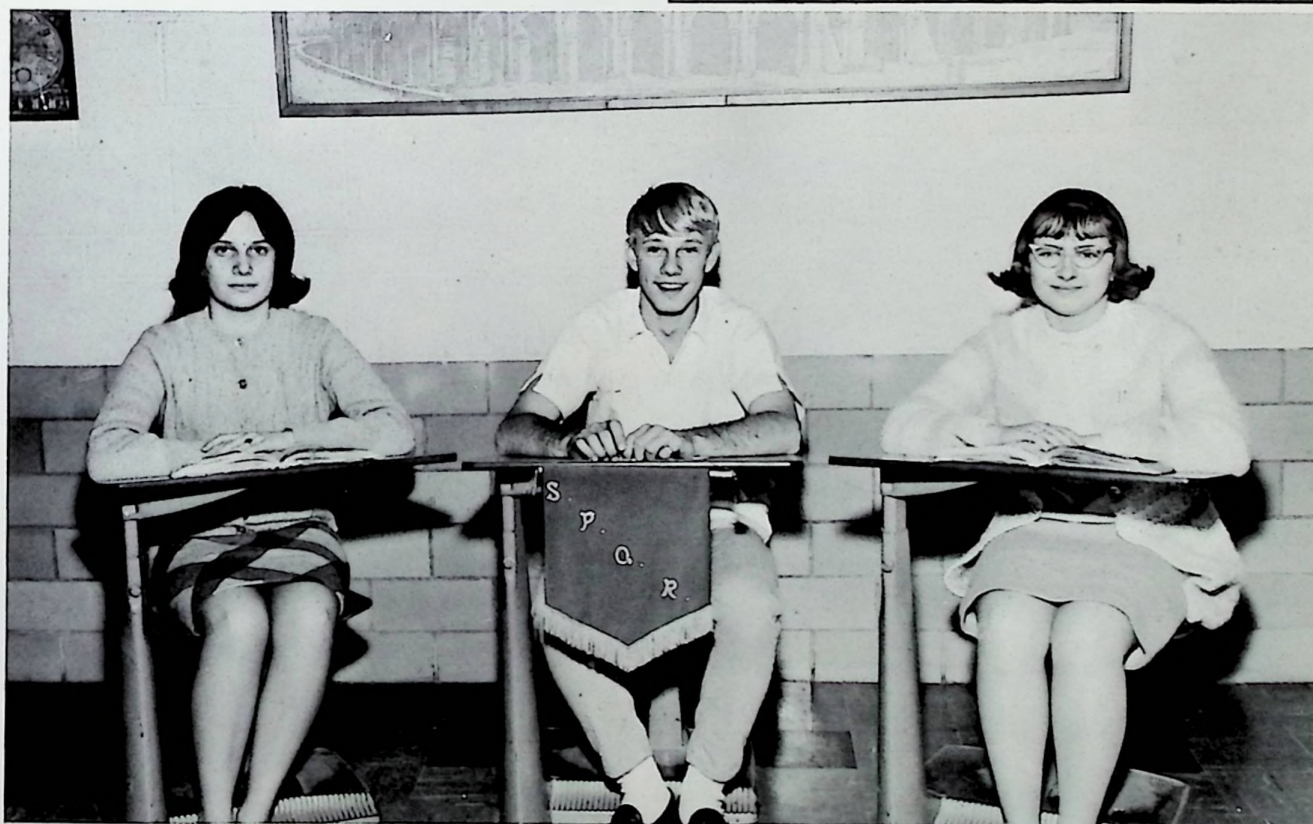

The scholars on the math scholarship team were: Ron Day, Randy Scaggs, Dave Blevins, David Reeg, Melinda McLaughlin, Mike Bryan, Sue Clausing, and Connie Nourse.

Be careful Susan; you can't fool Mr. Leive!

Although most studying is accomplished through the use of books and pencils, a great deal can be understood through deep contemplation. Right, Paul?

Mrs. Conley's speech class works on their speeches. They are (left to right) Mike Withers, Brenda Fannin, Jane Piatt, Sandi Burt, Linda Elam, Steve Allen, Dan Horsley, Judy Poole, David Allison, Dennis Jarrells, Judy Elrod, Dean Elliot, Cindy Long, and Roger Mullins.

During the year, the speech class enacted two plays: "Why Teachers Go Nuts," and "The Storm."

Contemplating deep thoughts over the intricacies of the English language is the English scholarship team. This team consisted of Pam Altman, Cheri Belcher, Linda Elam, David Brannon, Sherry Moore, Stephanie Stamper, and Susan Harrigan.

In English 12, Mrs. Emmett gives an assist to Dan Horsley while Harold Glenn dozes in the background. Also shown are Dean Elliot, Brenda Fannin, Susan Harrigan, and Cathy McGlone.

English 10 class takes a test under the supervision of Mrs. Bender. They include: Cheri Belcher, Sue Clausing, Bobetta Smith, Paula Moritz, and Melinda McLaughlin

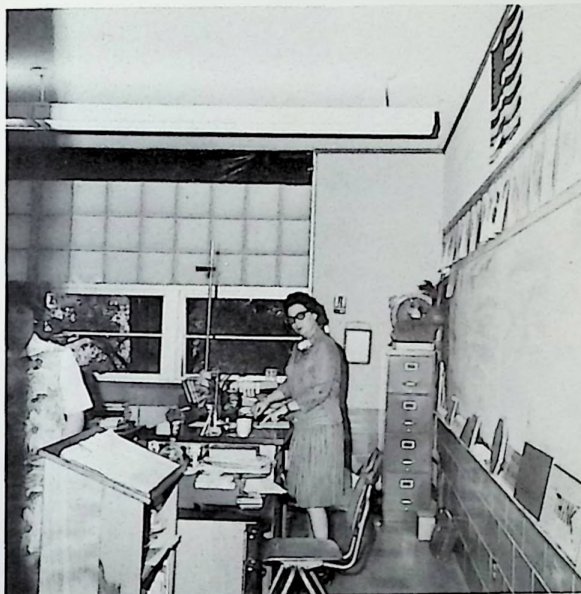

Looking slightly bewildered, Mrs. Emmett, our senior English teacher, cuts her going away cake.

The sophomore girl's phys. ed. class appears to be more than Mrs. Darnell bargained for or can handle, as they usually keep her snugly bound.

Miss Coriell takes time to pose amid her task of preparing the junior high for high school science.

Although all the teachers at Clay have interesting classes, on occasion, something out the window seems more interesting.

The National Honor Society induction ceremony is a big event around Clay. It symbolizes the culmination of the year's work. Excitement rules. Near the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. Estepp, with the current officers and honored guests, makes a few remarks to the new Honor Society.

Our debate team is small but mighty. They give their opponents a consistently rough time.

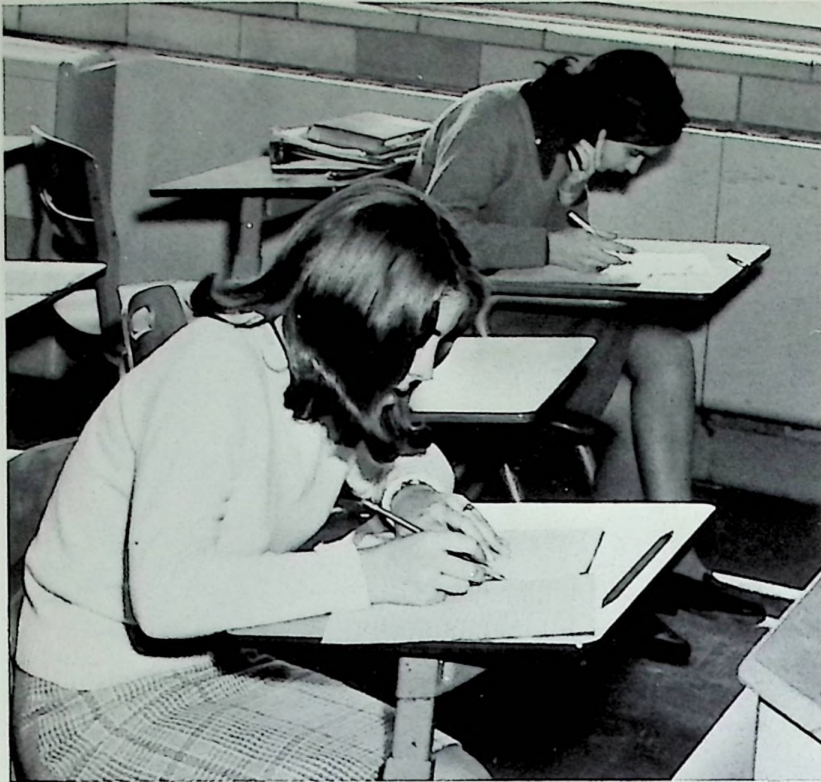

Susan Rothgeb Carol Kelly Mike Bryan David Regg

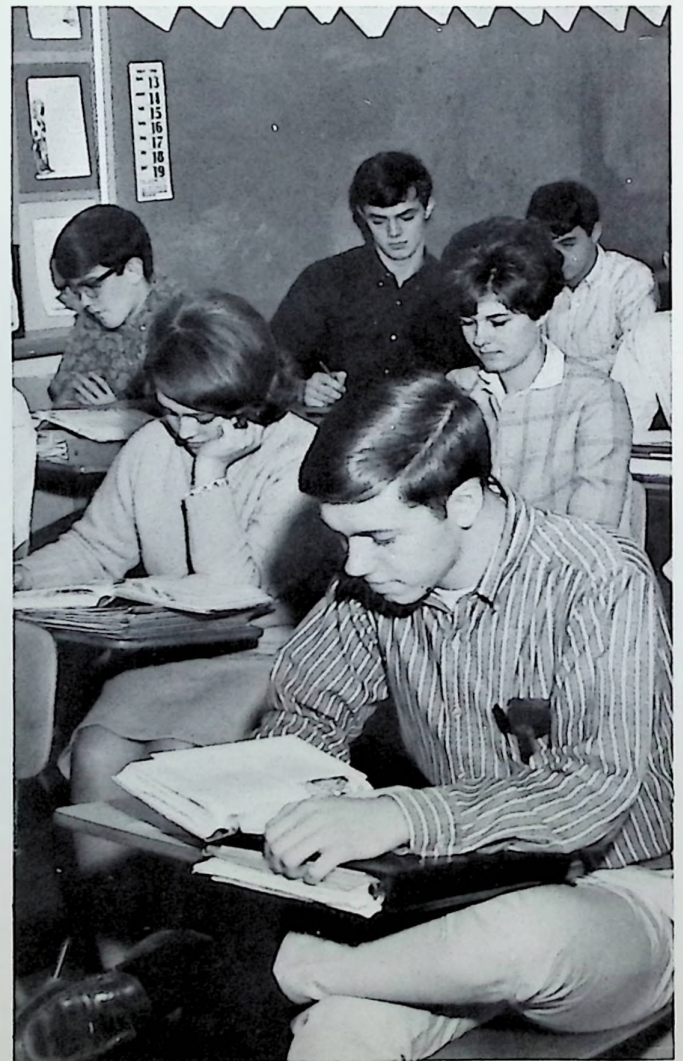

Each six weeks the National Honor Society compiles and displays an honor roll in the lobby. Shown here are the officers just finishing one. Pam Altman - President, Susie Hollis - Vice-President, Susan Harrigan - Treasurer, and Jackie Doll - Secretary.

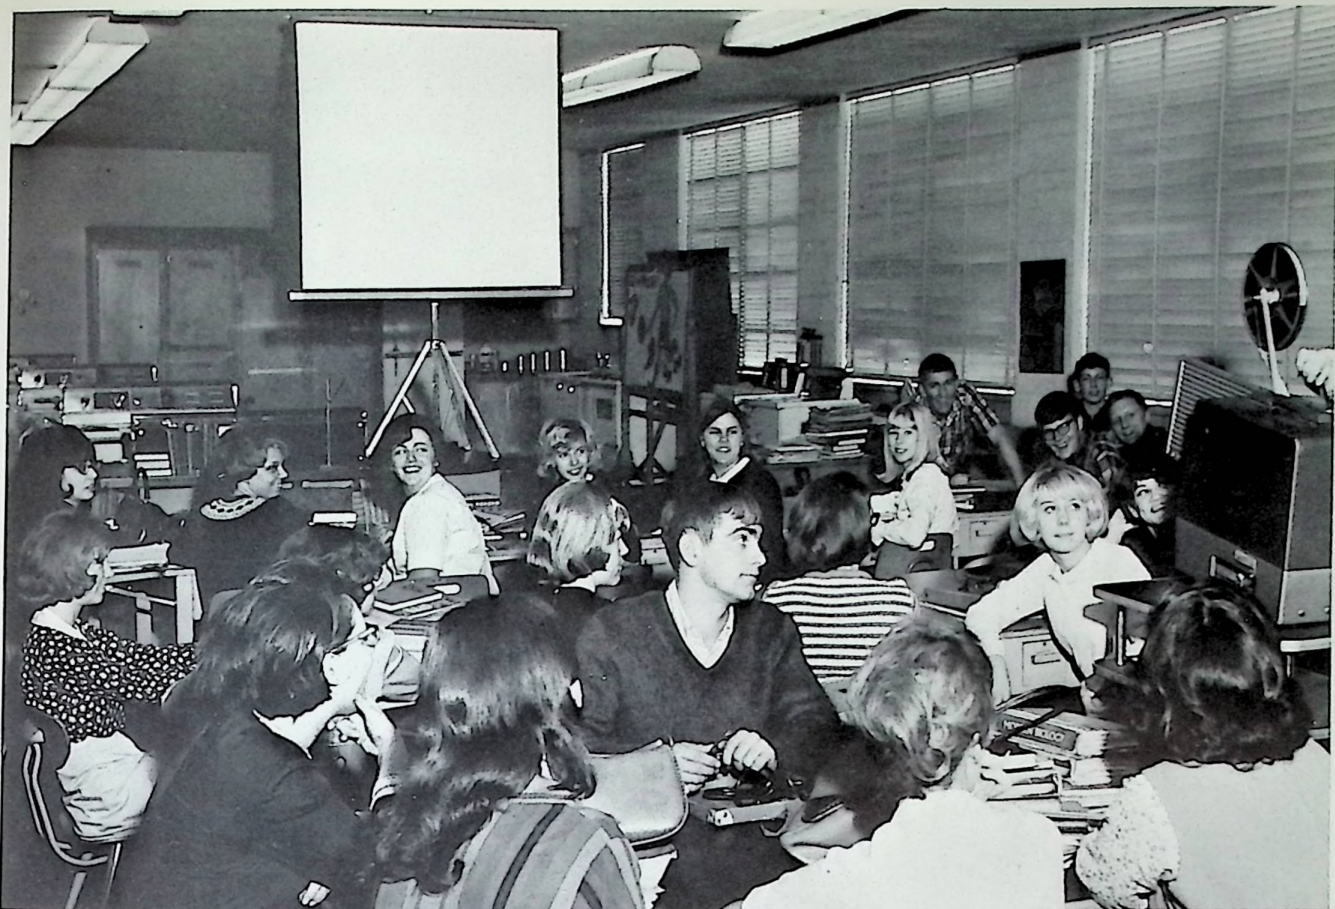

Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service - the cardinal principles of N. H. S.'s motley crew, but dedicated to the last one. D. Reeg, D. Walters, M. Chilcote, N. McCall, M. Bryan, D. Blanton, P. Altman, S. Hollis, K. Nourse, S. Harrigan, C. Bright, J. Doll, and D. Simon.

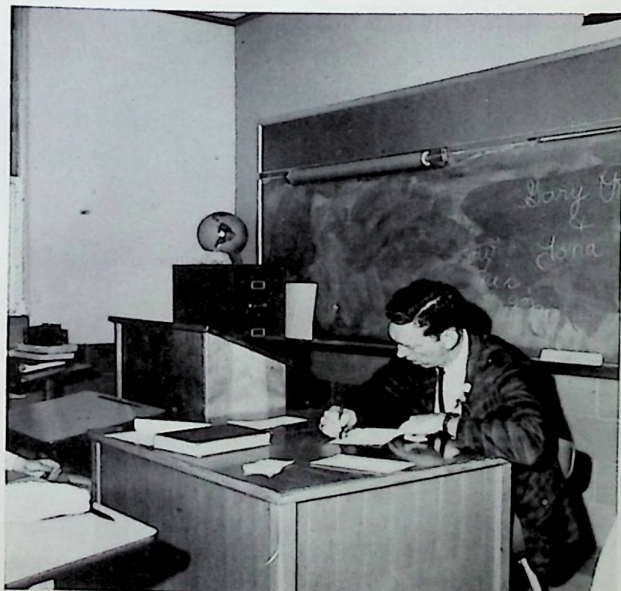

All work and no play may be fatal, but the students at Clay realize that the other extreme is just as dangerous. The student body prides itself on scholastic achievement as well as the outstanding record that is synonymous with the name Clay. A certain responsibility, not to let the school down, lies upon each student; he accepts it willingly and shoulders it with confidence.

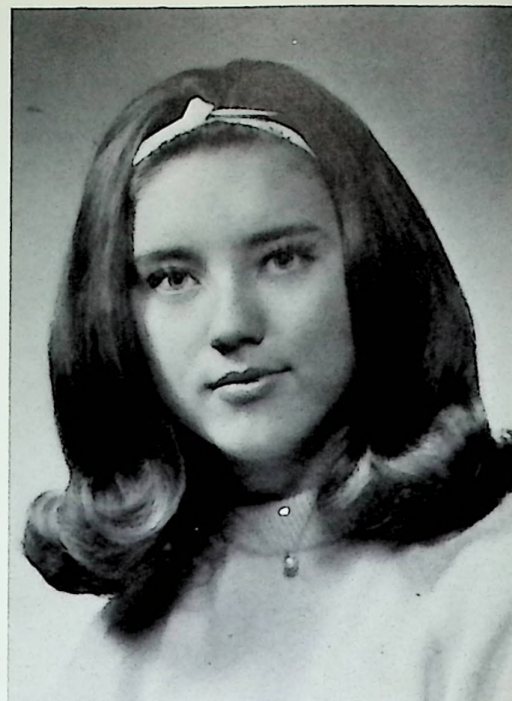

Family Living, Mrs. Royster's class is all it's cracked up to be and more. The purpose of the class is to give modern, up-to-date, practical knowledge, applicable in everyday relations. M. Pack, L. Hammond, L. Nibert, P. Lallow, M. Wells, C. Canter, M. Madden, M. Brush, D. Wilkerson, G. Thurman, P. Blume, P. Graham, D. Blevins, J. Elrod, L. Sparks, D. Baker, S. Leach, J. Ruggles, J. Benner, and L. Spires.

Mr. Leightenheimer sets a rugged pace to follow. Good teachers are hard to find, mainly because Clay has too many of them.

Valedictorian
Pamela Sue Altman

Top honors were given to Pamela Altman, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Roger Altman of Meridian Place, Rosemount. She participated actively in the many activities at Clay, being co-editor of the yearbook staff, president of the National Honor Society, a member of the Future Teachers of America, the scholarship team, science club, winning 1st place in Earth Sciences at our Science Fair, placing 1st in the Count Typing I contest, representing her school in Who's Who Among American High School Students, and reigned as Senior attendant at the Homecoming.

Salutatorian
Carolyn Sue Hollis

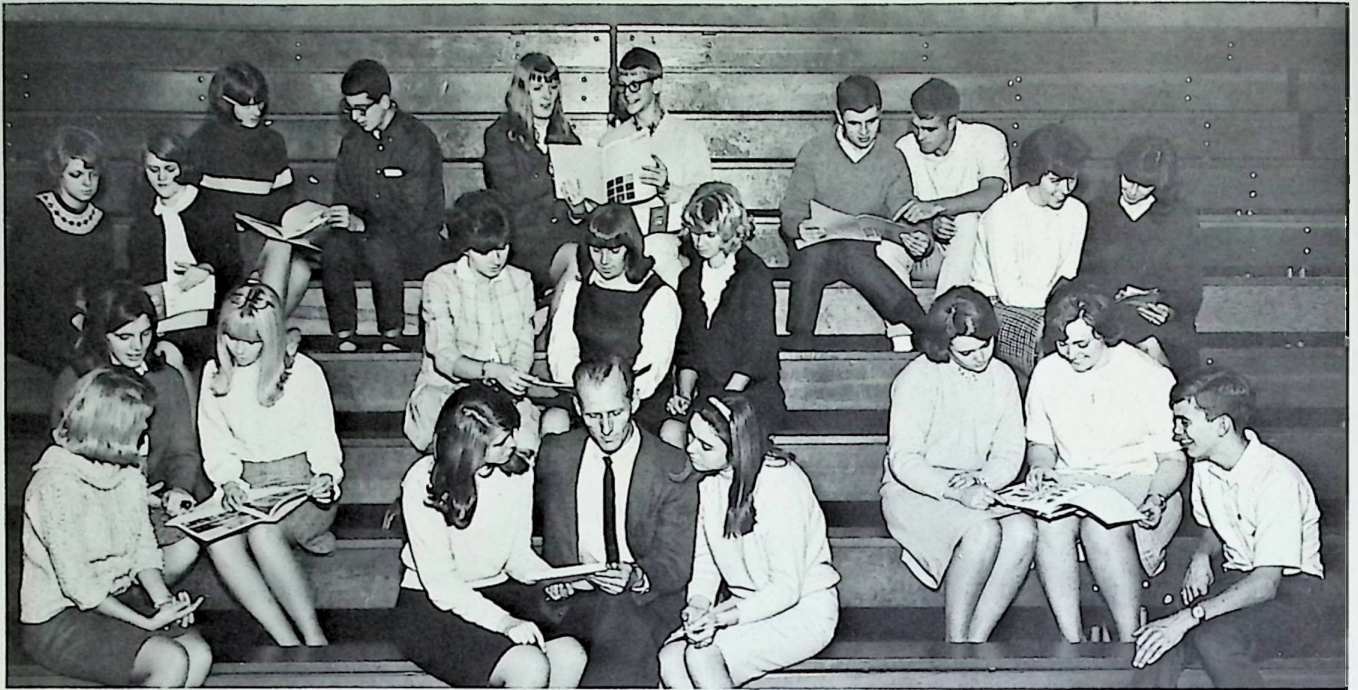

Our Salutatorian, Carolyn Sue Hollis, is a daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Harry G. Hollis, 1244 Hogan Street, Rosemount. Susie was an eager participant in Clay's activities. She served as co-editor of the yearbook staff, vice-president of the National Honor Society, head majorette, a member of the Future Teachers of America, band, pep band, mixed chorus, and glee club.

ACTIVITIES

Panther Staff — 1967

The Panther Staff hoped to prove that the pen was mightier than the sword. We found that pictures and copy did indeed prove a formidable enemy. No casualties were listed however. Many long hours of hard work were spent in preparation, but it was well worth the cost.

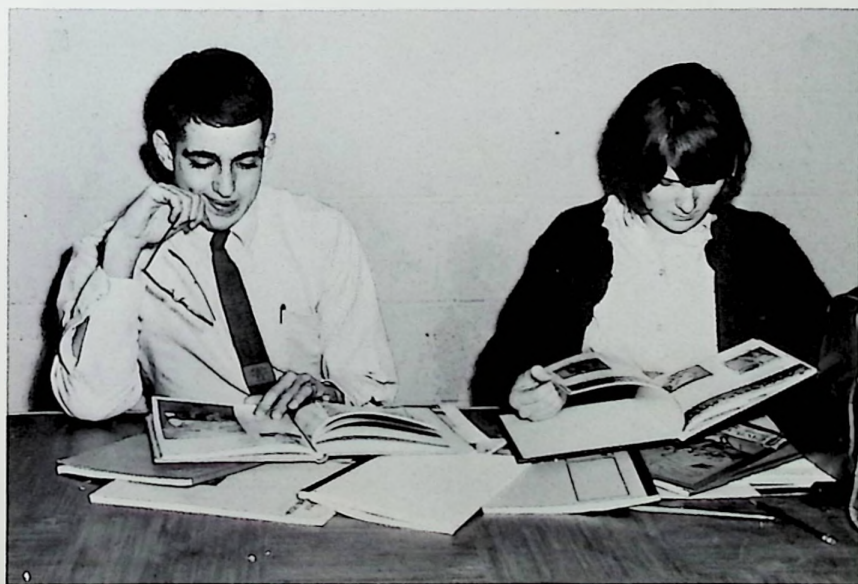

Organization was the key word used by the co-editors during the year. Pam Altman and Susie Hollis met the problems head-on and exhausted tremendous effort to create the '67 Panther.

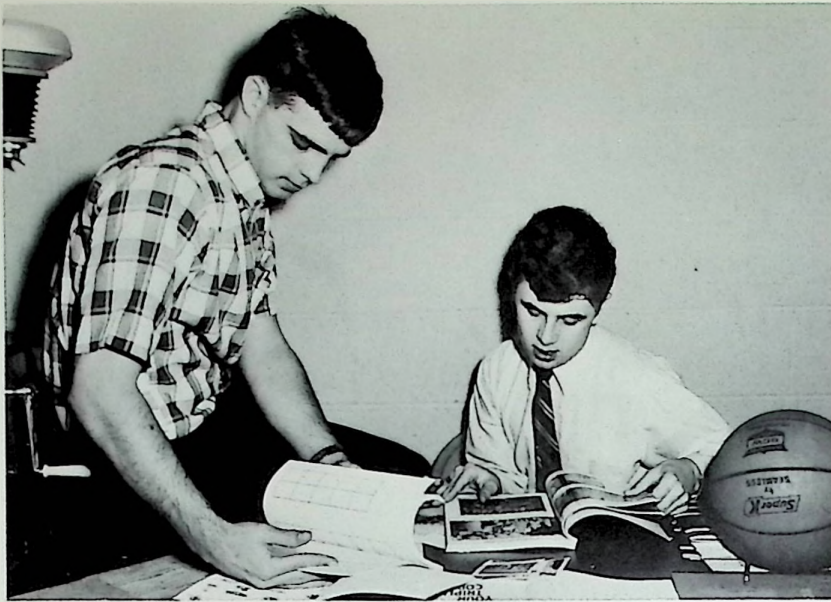

The Senior Section always presents a difficult task. This section involves the senior pictures, index, and Superlatives. Linda Hammond and Brenda Fannin gave a vital assist in the production of our yearbook.

The Administration Section is one of the most perplexing. Foresight and planning mixed well with creativity were the qualities that Karen Nourse and Debbie Webb contributed for sure results.

Mike Chilcote and Susan Harrigan took charge of the classes and scholarship section this year. Clay is renowned for its high level of scholastic achievement, giving the section more than ample material to work with.

Brains and brawn proved to be a superior combination for the sports section. Mike Nance and David Blanton teamed up to make a vivid picture of Clay's sports action.

Diana Rickey, Connie Bright, and Cathi Canter (not shown) supplied the staff with a fair measure of inspiration for the activities section. Clay participates in so many diverse activities that they were really kept moving.

Our student life section represents the most natural account of everyday life at Clay. This year Roger Lehman and Cathy McGlone really struggled to capture a fair image of the students and faculty.

The underclassmen section of the annual was undertaken by Phyllis Russell and Pam Lallow. The section poses a particularly laborious task since all students from the seventh to the eleventh grade must be placed in their respective order.

Linda Nibert, Danny Ashmore, and Nanciann Delabar composed the back-up crew that kept the staff going. Serving as business managers and photographer they were a valuable asset to the staff.

The section head, though usually not this formally posed, could always be counted on to provide ideas or suggestions when one of the others had a problem. Jokingly referred to as the "Bare Essentials."

They had the ball, but not for long. Paul, David, and Keith saw to that.

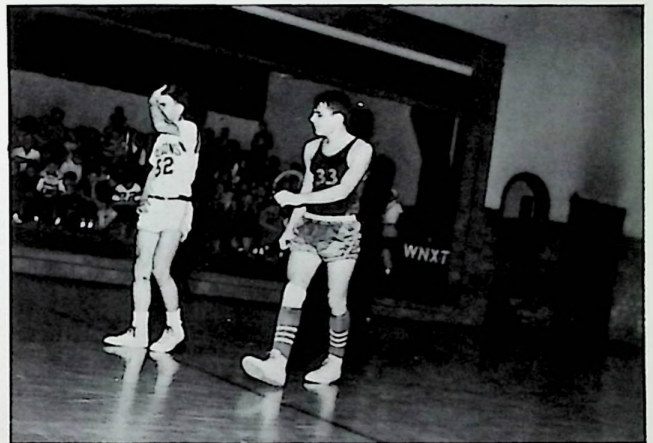

Watch Dave go!

Mr. Berry and Paul seem to disagree, but Paul gives him the benefit of the doubt.

Chalk up two more . . .

What did you think of that, chum?

Baseball — 1967

This year's baseball team had to switch coaches in mid-season, accept several serious injuries and yet went on to make a great showing in the tournaments, finally losing at Chillicothe. A team is only as good as its bench; Clay had bench to spare. Only one senior, Mike Nance, was on the team this year. Six juniors made the team, Jeff Kaut, Joe Porter, Gary Douthat, Mike Simon, Joe McGraw, and Larry Palmer. The rest of the team consisted of freshman and sophomores: Paul Kaut, Dave Blevins, Don Bailey, John Tipton, John Doll, Barry Sparks, Ty Elliot, John Abendschein, Billy Hatfield, Ron Day, Dave Dickson, and Larry Goad.

Have you ever seen a more professional disembarkation from a high school baseball team

Mr. Long, Mr. Justus, the visiting coaches and the ump have a short summit conference before the game.

Looks good enough for a couple of runs.

Misery

Jeff singles in on one --

Loud cheering section

One down . . .

At a ballgame you find action - either on the hill or on the diamond.

"Hold it fellas! I just changed my mind!"

Strike 3

We won one!

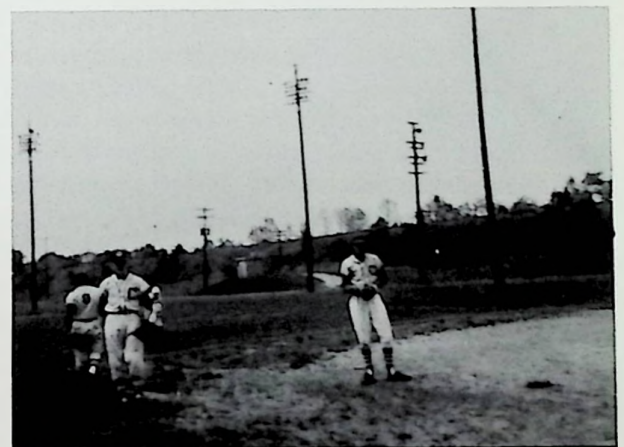

Mr. Justus is very versatile; he can hit the ball too.

Looks as though Mr. Justus is going to try out as the umpire

One batter hits the dust

Jeff appears tame but beware to the opposition.

John Tipton proves himself to be pretty handy.

Before game practice.

Track And Field Events

1967 brought the determined members of the track team under the sure guidance of their coach, Mr. Leightenheimer. Their record, statistically, might show a loss, but anyone in connection with the team can only count on the plus side. The boys worked hard. The success or failure of a meet has to be judged on a personal basis, for each participant competes against himself. In judging by this method, they far excelled their past records. Mr. Leightenheimer, G. Roberts, L. Grimshaw, H. Wyrick, D. Bihl, D. Walters, J. Kaut, B. Gemperline, W. Osborne, L. Frazier, M. Lallow, D. Elliot, E. Vanderpool, M. Brush, R. Lehman, M. Chilcote, D. Hurley, D. Ashmore, P. King, R. Henthorne, and D. Reeg.

Make way! Here they come.

Upon arriving at his destination, Mr. Leightenheimer sums up the situation and begins to laugh. Confidence, an essential quality.

Paul looks pretty anxious to get somewhere, maybe a head start?

I know I can. I know
I can, I know I can,
I know I can . . .

Mr. Leightenheimer does not give an inch. Shown here he has just challenged a man to step across that line.

O.K. fellas, if they get too far ahead we'll simply hold a sit-in.

"If they don't come in ten more minutes,
we leave!"

Come on, Mike, we can't wait all day.

Mr. Leightenheimer, official track cheerleader, roots Wayne on to victory.

No, Dan, you can't take the pole home.

"Well, we at least tried."

STUDENT LIFE

"My gosh! I've got an English test tomorrow."

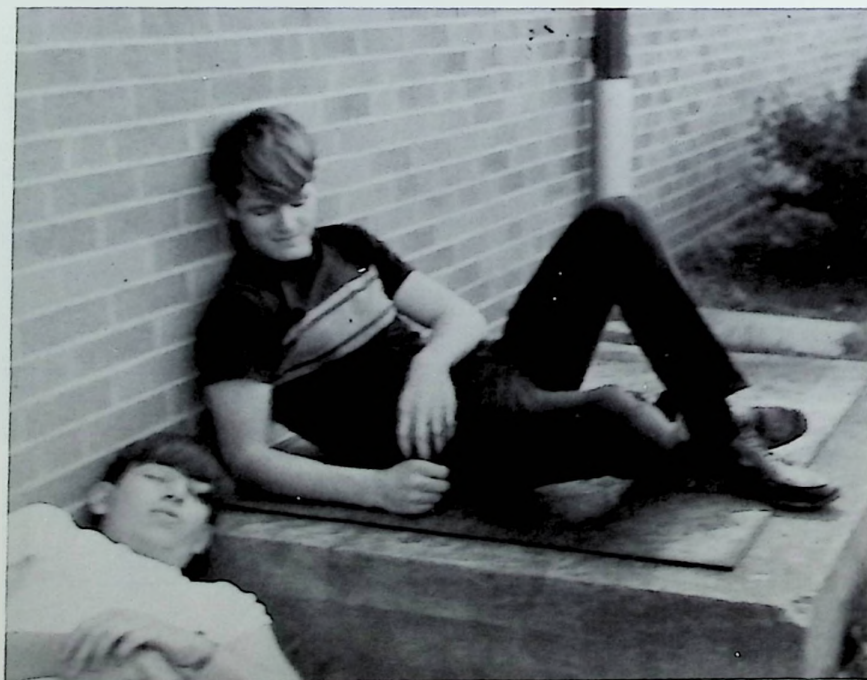

P. K. points the way

Would you believe a fast game of follow-the-leader?

Resting up for graduation?

Is Cathy giving Mrs. Kuhner a racing tip?

I think we're alone now . . .

Mrs. Darnell demonstrates her strength as her Phys. Ed. class looks on in amazement.

"You see, it's this way," states Pam.

GRAFF STRIKES AGAIN!

The culmination of Clay's genius is displayed at our Science Fair.

Fans show spirit at Manchester-Clay basketball game.

"Who stole my copperhead?"

With a little muscle Mr. Leightenheimer may soon have the track of his dreams.

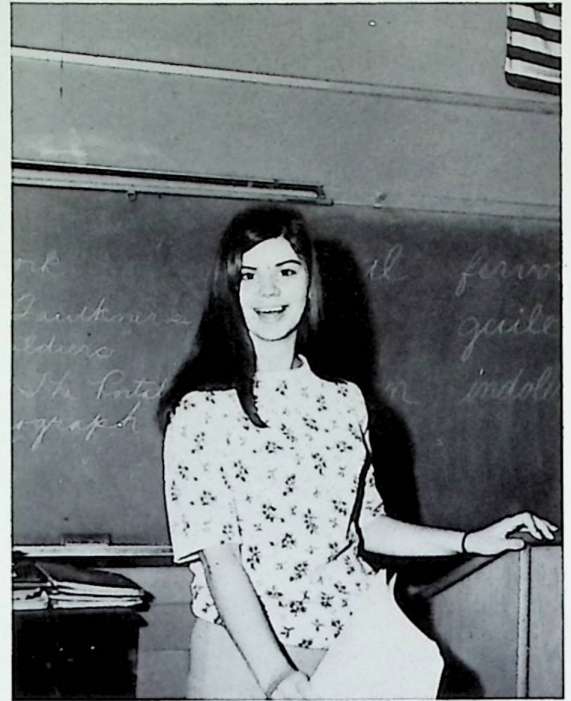

Me for National Honor Society?

Preparing for the senior class play.

Danny uses his last ounce of strength to win the dance contest at our Homecoming.

Is Pam pleased with her book report?

Shy Susan and Modest Joe make a perfect couple at the National Honor Society induction.

Dean inspects the progress of the senior class play while off stage.

Susan rushes from set to set trying to organize the speech class play.

The Freshman-Sophomore dance theme.

Mike inspects the projects before leaving for Marshall. Does it look O. K. Mike?

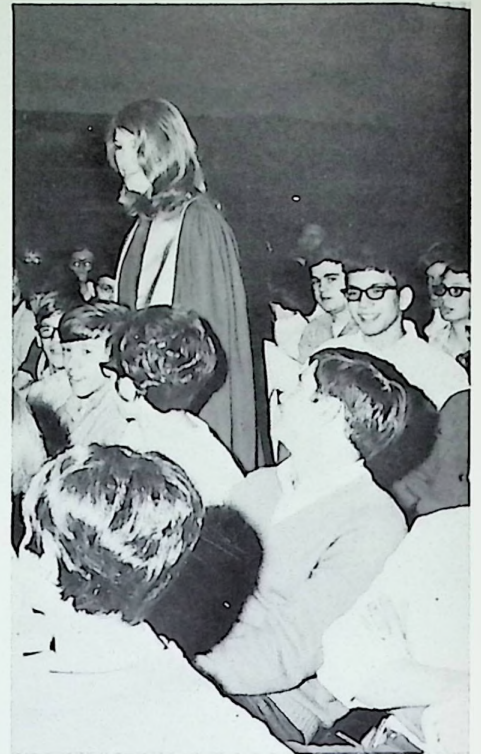

Mike stretches and grins.
That's natural.
Bill was very poised and calm. What's Steve laughing at?

Dave relaxes during class.

Cathi beams with pleasure
as she sits on her throne.

Terri is trying to explain her project but Sarah is in the way.

Sheri is happy as the Freshman-Sophomore turns out a great success.
