INTRODUCTORY.

R. L. Polk & Co. the publishers of the city directory of Portsmouth, Ohio, herewith present to its friends and patrons the 1914-1915 edition of that publication.

It is the result of an exceptionally careful canvas of every residence and place of business in the city proper and the villages both upon the Ohio and Kentucky banks of the Ohio river, with whom the city has intimate relations and the publishers believe that it cannot fail to satisfy the most critical.

As the capital city of Scioto County, Portsmouth occupies an advantageous position at the junction of the Scioto and the Ohio rivers and thus enjoys all the benefits arising from river navigation.

The Norfolk & Western, Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio railroads furnish shipping facilities in all directions.

It owes its continued prosperity to the establishment in its midst of the important manufactories of steel and shoes with their increasing payrolls and the fact that the shops of the N. & W. are located here.

THE FLOOD

The year of 1913 will be long remembered by the citizens of Portsmouth, as the year of the great flood. Beginning with the morning of Tuesday March 25th, following the continued rains and the cloud burst of the preceding days, the Scioto river which had been pouring its burden into the already swollen waters of the Ohio passed the danger point and steadily rose. As the flood water that had devastated Columbus and the cities of the Scioto Valley reached Portsmouth it covered the city with its yellow blanket until it stood to the depth of eight feet over nearly the entire residence and business portion of the city. Portsmouth was fortunate in that the rush of the current did not do the physical damage that was suffered by some of the other cities.

POPULATION

Portsmouth was credited by the United States Census in 1910 with a population of 23,481, within the confines of the city limits. The canvas for this directory shows an increase of 65 pages of name information over that of the directory issued for 1910. As each page indicates a gain of approximately one hundred souls, after allowing for the population which should be credited to the adjacent towns, an estimate of 26,981 as the present population of Portsmouth would be regarded as conservative.

The publishers desire to express their appreciation of the liberal patronage which has been accorded them and to promise that every effort will be made to make each succeeding edition a credit alike to publishers and patrons.

The Sign over your door

IT is a good thing, isn't it? You would not be doing business without it.

But it is only seen by those who pass your way.

The City Directory is where many people look they want to find you. You should make it easy for them to find you by putting in the directory such information as a buyer wants to know. Index your business under all classifications where a customer might find you.

To be properly registered costs less than to be overlooked.

Send for the City Directory Advertising Man and let him explain this to you in detail.
