PIZZA HUT

TIGER FEUD

PATRIOTIC TIGERS

During the basketball season, the boys basketball team displayed their support for the troops by wearing flags on their jerseys. Tim shows off his support for the American troops.

The staff smiles pretty as they support their country's colors.

Students at Glenwood took special days of the week to honor the troops. Some wore red, some white, and some blue to show support.

All things end. And it is time for the Class of 91 to end their high school career. When the seniors are together with their friends, they find themselves saying "remember when." Most of the seniors have spent 13 years together. When that much time is spent together, naturally there are good times, there are bad times, there are rewarding times, and there are trying times.

The time has come for the seniors to move on, to get out from under the wing of high school. Some students will choose to further their education, some will choose the work force, others will join the armed forces, and others will choose marriage.

The four years they have been in high school they have experienced a lot. In the world of sports, there have been many bright moments. The soccer team won the S.O.C. title all four years they were in high school, the basketball team visited the Convo twice, the volleyball team advanced once to the district, then again the next year to the regional tournament, and the girl's basketball team advanced to the regional tournament.

In the four years of high school there has been many events in world news. In '88 George Bush was awarded the presidency. The Constitution of the United States celebrated its 200th birthday, the stock market crashed and most recently, our seniors lived through a war, Operation Desert Storm.

The seniors have lots of memories to hold on to forever. Isn't high school the best part of life? The time before you get to experience the real world.

When August comes, some will stay home to attend Shawnee State University, others plan to go away. But, no matter how far their paths take them, their memories will always take them back to Glenwood by the hill.

SENIORS

GRADUATION

The senior class awoke on May 24 to find an overcast day with the humidity soaring. The awards assembly kicked off the day, then practice for graduation followed.

Through the entire practice tempers were short and everyone was dreading graduation inside. The time came to practice outside. The class pushed open the doors and sunshine flooded in. It looked like a beautiful day would lead to a wonderful evening for the ceremony to be held.

After practice, the senior class went to Fred's to share a huge pizza, one last get together before they must say goodbye.

At 6:00 p.m. the sun was shining and the temperature was 90. The evening was beautiful, as was the ceremony. The invocation was delivered by Rev. Gerald Penix of the New Boston Community Church. After the Rev. Greg Pennington provided his message, "Keep on Growing", the salutatorian presented her speech. This year's salutatorian was Kelli Jenkins. The title of her speech was "The Road Not Taken". Kelli will begin nursing school this fall at Eastern Kentucky University.

Todd Loper, the valedictorian, then addressed the crowd. The speech was entitled

"You Can Do It". Todd will continue his basketball career at Shawnee State University and study plastics engineering.

Thomas Pauley, a 1948 graduate of G.H.S., and retired teacher/minister, presented "Fearless and Strong" to the graduation class. These words echoed through the stadium as strong as a tiger. All of the classmates felt a tingle in their spine as he delivered his message.

After the ceremony was over and everyone exchanged hugs, the sun set and the class of 1991 began their journey through life.

What is on the minds of seniors on graduation? Joy, relief, sadness; all of these terms describe the feelings of 32 seniors on May 24, 1991. Joy that high school is over. For some no more studying, for others only a new beginning. Most of the class will continue their education at Shawnee State University, however, others will chose to go away. Relief that "I made it". Completing high school is a step in the process called life. Sadness that the time has come to let go of the security that high school provided, sadness that friends will grow apart, and all of the fun of high school.

The words delivered at graduation brought tears to some of the students.

Salutatorian, Kelli Jenkins, addresses the crowd with great emotions.

The graduating class stands for the invocation.

Valedictorian, Todd Loper, delivers his speech to the crowd and his classmates.

The chorus performs at the graduation ceremony, the last performance for the graduating students.

CLASS WILLS

I, Fran Adkins, being of sound mind and body, leave my bravery for the field to Shelly Robinson and Chelsey Bishop.

I, Leslie Adkins II, being of sound mind and body do hereby leave my lean, muscular, gorgeously tanned and toned body to the junior girls. Lord knows it's kept them awake many nights!!

I, Chastity Bishop, being of sound mind and body, leave to Shelly Robinson my ability to come home on time. I also leave to Darren Harr and Chelsey, my Nintendo abilities.

I, Adam Chaney, being of omnipotent mind and legendary body, do hereby leave nothing to the Class of '92. My memory is reward enough.

I, Betsey Cornwell, being of sound mind and body, leave to Darren Harr, my cousin Andrea.

I, Sabrina Fitch, leave the ability to play basketball to Shelly Robinson.

I, Chris Gerard, making no claims to a sound mind or body, do hereby leave my ability to pick up South Webster girls to Ryan Taylor. Keep your shirt on your head and the Doors in the radio and you'll do just fine.

I, Bridget Gilliam, leave to Michele Maddix the ability to pump gasoline instead of kerosene.

I, Angie Henson, of sound mind and body, leave to the Class of 1992 my ability to get anything I want, and to Jon, Ryan C., and Donard my great cooking ability. "Keep the fire extinguisher close!"

I, Chad Hickman, leave my Hickman Butt-chin to Ryan Cornwell to match the little black thing on his lip.

I, Josh Howard, being of sound mind and body, leave my ghost to Heather Loper so she will have someone to talk to in the halls between classes.

I, Kelli Jenkins, being of sound mind and body, leave to the junior cheerleaders my wisdom — I know you will make it without your "mother." Also, I leave to Heather Loper my driver's license and my car; and to Michelle Conn my letter of acceptance to E.K.U..

I, Annette Lewis, being of sound mind and body, leave my ability to get to know those downtown guys to Michelle Maddix. Don't forget the Fid and Aaron deal!

I, Todd Loper, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to my sister, Heather Loper, my position as valedictorian. This is one your classmates can't vote on, so you should succeed.

I, Dana Raike, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Michelle Conn and Darren Harr the ability to keep my mouth shut. God knows you need it.

I, Jason Seth, being of sound mind and body, leave my Beethoven talents to Ryan Taylor who deserately needs them.

I, Jennifer Spiess of 1/2 sound mind and so-so body hereby leave to Michelle Maddix my so-called great singing ability. "Make me proud!" I also leave to Ryan Taylor my outrageous laugh, great sense of humor, Oh, and don't forget. . .my unbelievable talking ability! I know you'll put it to great use.

CLASS MOTTO

There is in each of us
The strength to fly,
The love to support us,
And the dream to make us try.

CLASS PROPHECY

In the year 2001 when I, Chad Hickman, completed a highly successful world tour with my rock band, The Cold Green Mangos, I decided to take a brief vacation. My entourage and I agreed to relax and get away from it all in my hometown of New Boston.

Upon arriving in New Boston, my bus driver, Jason Seth, spotted a strange man roaming the streets in a hospital robe. To my surprise it was Adam Chaney — I then knew I was “home.”

Chris Gerard, Mayor of New Boston, heard of my arrival and had planned a celebration at my Alma Mater, Glenwood High School. He told me of some of the teacher changes that had occurred over the last ten years at the high school. Todd Loper was the English teacher and head basketball coach while Josh Howard was teaching Industrial Arts and was assistant basketball coach. These two had plenty of years experience coaching on the field during their high school years, so I wasn't surprised at their coaching success now.

After the festivities, I toured GHS, thinking of the “old days.” I stopped in the teachers' lounge and found Gerri Scott, successor to Mrs. Bennett. We talked for awhile and she told me of Angie Henson's success in the skin-care business.

Jason and I then decided to check out our hometown together and so we set out to rent a car. We found the nearest car lot and discovered the salesman was none other than Leslie Adkins. He match his advertisement, “Leslie Adkins, the crazy, laughing, car salesman”, perfectly. After selecting a junker and getting ripped off by Leslie, we putted down the road in our pink Pinto.

While driving through New Boston, we passed a huge billboard which read “K-mart — Better Than Ever! Under New Management — Store Manager: Kellie Jenkins.” Several blocks down the road we passed a bigger billboard reading, “Wal-Mart — Better Than K-Mart! Under New Management — Store Manager: Chastity Bishop.” Jason and I laughed — those two are still in competition!!

We stopped at the famous “Taco Fran's” for lunch. Fran Adkins had opened a Mexican restaurant in the New Boston shopping mall where the lakebottom used to be. While pulling out of the lot, Jason hit the side of the building; he never was very good at driving. I told Fran to calm down and I would take care of the damage repair bill. I called Todd Grant, who was operating a large bricklaying firm in New Boston with the help of John Brisker, Tom Collins, and Shane Slark. He told me he could have it repaired in no time. So after signing some papers and talking to Police Chief Beanie Fitch, I stopped at the pay phone to make a few calls.

I called my manager, Betsey Cornwell, and she informed me my new album was doing very well in Europe. She even told me she had heard from Patricia deLuque, who had bought one in Spain, Patricia was now a concert pianist, and was doing extremely well in the music business herself.

We then cruised down Rhodes Avenue and I noticed Bridget Gilliam washing cars at the VIP car wash. I stopped by to see how she was doing. She told me of her hostile take-over of VIP and that she was now sole owner. Bridget told me Jason Truitt had attempted the same thing at McDonalds, but so far had only managed to make it to head cook. Bridget was starting to get very busy so I said goodbye and traveled a little further up the road.

We were getting hungry again so I suggested we try “Bowl-A-Dog”. Mike and Nancy Clark, who were still happily married, had thought of the idea of this new bowling alley where the customer bowls for hotdogs. These two told me they were franchising “Bowl-A-Dog” all over America. After we had bowled a few sets and eaten a couple-hundred hot dogs, we decided to try the new nightclub we had passed called “Party Palace.”

While at the Party Palace, I ran into the owners, Dana Raike, Lori Dixon, and Annette Lewis. Dana told me about Adena Rayburn, Beverly McGraw, and Lisa Collins who were managing the New Boston Library. I was watching the nightclub's big screen TV when a new talk show, “Two Cents” came on, hosted by Jennifer Spiess and Laura Ottney. Their guest for the evening was free-time Wimbledon champion Rodney “the Rocker” Fetty. The show ended with Rodney and Jennifer fighting about the “good old days” and Laura finally breaking it up.

When the day finally ended I was somewhat relieved. I was definitely amazed at the Class of 1991! My old high school class was alive and kicking and doing fine. I left New Boston one proud man.

People. They come in all shapes and sizes. People. They are all different colors. People. We have all different kinds at G.H.S. Because we have the junior high, we have a wide range of teens to young adults. Our seventh graders have the experience of coming to the high school. From 6th grade, this is a big jump. At elementary school, one stays in one class all day, one has one teacher, and you have recess. When you come to the high school, you go to seven different classes, have seven different teachers, and you don't have recess.

The eight graders really don't have much of a change. Still, junior high-but have one up on the seventh graders.

The freshman, now you're in HIGH SCHOOL. You get to participate on high school sports teams, you get to be in extra-curricular organizations, and your class gets to be represented in homecoming. You might get a hard time from the upper classmen, but hey, you'll be a senior some day.

The sophomores and juniors are stuck right in the middle. As a junior, you keep thinking, "Oh, I have one more year." That one more year sure goes quick. The 10th and 11th graders are enjoying the lazy days of school and making lots of memories.

Seniors, the time is here to take that big step, out from under the wing of high school time; to leave your security blanket and go out into the real world. Many of the seniors will be leaving home to experience the life of a college student. When the time comes they will be ready, but it will be hard to say goodbye to "Glenwood by the hill."

Tammie Carr takes a quick nap in Mrs. Potter's science class.

No one understands the life of the students, unless it is the student himself. Most students are involved in extra-curricular activities which require a lot of time. That time is not between 7:52 and 2:30. Usually the students in these activities do not get home until after 4:30, and that is if you are lucky enough to get first practice. All of this hard work is rewarded with the "fun things." Students look forward to the fun things such as the play, the dances, homecoming, Tiger Feud, and prom.

The drama club begins long before April to prepare for the play. This year, first-year, English teacher, Dave Tevis tackled a mystery-comedy called Creeping Shadows. The play consisted of a cast of 18 people. Everyone buckled down, learned their lines, and made the play a success.

Dances are lots of fun for the junior high, because they get a night out. They get to "go out" with the high school kids, something you look forward to at the junior high level. Halloween was the first dance of the school year. There were many different costumes. Everthing from Ninja turtles, to storybook characters, to the popular witches and ghosts.

Homecoming was the next doing held in honor of the queen and her court. With the dance shortly before Christmas, the theme appropriately, was "Homecoming Christmas."

Tiger Feud was held again this year. We ended the last day with the Tiger Feud, a good way to kick off Spring Break. The students used their wild imagination to come up with the best name for their family. The teachers were victorious over the seventh graders, who, for the first year, made it to the final round.

All students look forward to their junior year because they can finally go to the prom. This year the juniors dedicated "Just You And I" to the senior class. The meeting place was beautifully decorated in emerald green. The bells of the ball were stunning in the hottest style of dresses and the guys were gorgeous, too! Thanks, juniors, for a very special evening.

The life of a student involves lots of hard work, many hours, but many memories are made with all the fun of the four years of high school.

STUDENT LIFE

JUNIOR SENIOR PROM

The new year had rung in. There was snow on the ground. The tanning beds were booked and spring fever was in the air. Prom 1991 was just around the corner.

The teen magazines had all the hottest formals and girls of all ages were counting their money. As an 8th grader, prom seems so far away, only something to dream about. For the juniors and seniors, the night to portray Cinderella is real. I don't recall any carriages turning to pumpkins but for the most part the night is a storybook-like scene.

Hours before the girls are washing their hair, the guys are washing their cars. Everyone wants the night to be just perfect. Minutes before the girls touch up their lipstick, the guys are starting to get dressed.

The Meeting Place was where the night of magic was held. The theme this year was "Just You and I". The place was beautifully decorated with emerald green and dazzling silver. A grand march was held preceding dinner so friends and families would get a chance to see all the lovely couples.

Each mother felt a tug at her heart and a tear down her cheek, as she saw her baby all grown, but to her — still playing dress-up. Prom is a special night for everyone and parents must feel fulfillment when they see how beautiful their son or daughter looks as they are presented to the crowd.

As the night rocked on, the pumps came off, ties loosened and friendships grew stronger. One will always remember his or her high school prom and someday share stories with their children. Everyone had a terrific night and to you, Juniors, thanks for the memories.

The after prom was held at Sun Set Bowling Lanes. Everyone put on some comfortable clothes and tried their hand at bowling. It was no "Big 3" but we sure had a good time.

Some went all out for their final prom. This group of seniors arrives in a chauffeured limo. Now that's class.

The students hit the dance floor as soon as the music starts and their bellies are full.

No prom is complete without the stern adults.

John Brisker really seems to be enjoying himself.

Chris Gerard and Shelly Robinson enter the grand march all smiles, ready for a wonderful evening.

Shane Slark and his date, Michelle Coll, stop to pose for the camera before entering the meeting place.

Leslie Adkins, pretends to be Napoleon as he completely confuses alias Betsy Cornwell.

Did you hear something? What was that? Laughter, that's what it was! Laughter filled the auditorium as the cast of Creeping Shadows livened up the stage.

The first performance was full of non-stop humor as Ryan Cornwell stole the show, as Jack Hunter. Ryan captivated the audience with one funny line after another.

Despite the fact that the play was written as a mystery-comedy, the cast turned this play into a full blown comedy. As the play went on the majority of the cast put their playbooks aside and just had fun.

The cast may have had a lot of fun, but hard work was a big part also. For a little over three months, the cast practiced and prepared for the big night. The Drama Club Sponsor, Dave Tevis, brought new ideas into the students world of drama. He added special sound effects, special lighting, and just an all around different approach.

Chris Gerald was the student director as well, playing the sheriff in the play. This was also new to the members, but it added to the fun! It also helped make this production a student production. Mr. Tevis was always heard saying, "Have fun, This is your play," and with those words firmly planted in the cast's mind that's what they did. Had fun!

Sometimes the cast was blessed with the harmonious singing trio of Ryan Cornwell, Chris Gerald and Leslie Adkins. With all joking aside, on the day the play was performed for the school, the hard work and long hours paid off. The play was a success.

BAND AND CHORUS

The 1990-91 yearbook staff decided to dedicate two pages of the yearbook to two groups of students who earned extra notification with their participation in many activities. The groups are band and chorus. Our pep band is a group of dedicated students who played at the basketball games and helped raise the spirits of the spectators and players. Our band marched in many parades. The chorus not only sang at different assemblies, but also, put on special concerts such as the Christmas Concert and the Spring Concert. Behind every successful group of students you have a determined and dedicated leader; Alice Maggard is the person who spends many hours working with these students to make them worth the special recognition. However, when you start out with a good group of students, the outcome is bound to be good.

RIVER DAYS

On the morning of September 1, Betsey woke to find the sun shining, the birds chirping, and butterflies in her stomach in full flight. But Betsey didn't have time to worry about that. She had to get ready for her exciting, yet extremely busy, day. First on the agenda was the dreaded interview. Though she had gone through mock interviews and been drilled with interview questions by family and friends, she was still a little nervous. Once she had survived her interview, she had some time to kick back and relax before the Grand Parade. Unfortunately the temperature outside had shot up into the 90's, but all the girls had to tough it out. All of the candidates were taken to the parade route in chauffeured limosines. When Betsey got to her float she was greeted by family and friends. When asked what Betsey thought of the parade, she responded, "I loved it. It helped relieve some of the stress that had built up." After the parade it was time to head for the activity center at Shawnee State University. With the pageant less than 2 hours away Betsey said, "Once I got to the activity center, I just told myself 'You can't be nervous, just go out there and do your best.'" 8 o'clock rolled around very quickly, and it was time for the big show. Her nerves were worse than ever once the pageant started. As soon as Betsey knew that the pageant was over, the tears began to fall from her eyes as well as the other contestants. Betsey said, "Even though I didn't win, I would do it all over again because I had a blast."

Making her first appearance on stage, Betsey introduces herself.

On her float, A Day At Millbrook Park, Betsey awaits the start of the parade.

G.H.S. PRESCHOOL

Each year Mrs. Bennett's Family Living class conducts a pre-school for one week at Glenwood High School. Each high school student in the class is required to participate in this activity. The small children usually come from families of students in the school and teacher's small children. Daily activities, games, and songs are set up and conducted by the class under the supervision of Mrs. Bennett. At the end of the week, a graduation ceremony is held, where the children receive special certificates that tell what that particular student has achieved that week. Then a small reception is held for parents and their children.

“Homecoming Christmas”

Once upon a time, on the certain day of December 14, 1990, the Tiger Den was packed full of spectators. These people were not only there to watch the Tigers conquer the opposing team, Ironton St. Joe, but to catch a first glimpse of our 1991 Homecoming Queen.

Escorted by seniors Josh Howard and Todd Loper, Chastity Bishop descended out onto the floor to the sound of “Hold On To The Night” by Richard Marx.

The time of year, the cold weather, the busy shoppers, the anticipation, and the atmosphere were perfect for the chosen theme, “Homecoming Christmas.” And Chastity’s Court were as followed Freshman Amanda Phillips, Sophomore Heather Burchett, Junior Michelle Conn, and Senior Dana Raike. They all did look wonderfully dressed in red.

GATEWAY TO HORROR

This year's night of terror, Gateway To Horror, was proudly sponsored by the student council. Thanks to their hard work, the dance was a great success. The costumes were well thought out and very creative. The range was from ninja turtles to Peter Pan to jailbirds. Without judging this year, all that were dressed up were winners.

The night began with music provided by Phil "Magic" Malone, which gave the edge to kick in the Halloween this year. Every one seemed to have a good time with the music fast and slow, which kept everyone happy.

The decorations seemed to go with the evening of dance. With the student council's decorum, the night went well. The council went to the community center right after school to take care of the preparations.

Refreshments were also taken care of by the council. They all took shifts selling pop, as well as buying the two liters to pour. The night was full of stars to end a great dance.

HONOR SOCIETY INDUCTION

Miss Maggard's chorus class sings at the 1990-91 induction.

Ryan Taylor, Heather Loper, Michelle Conn, and Ryan Cornwell watch the induction intently.

The Glenwood Honor Society held its annual induction on October 26, 1990. Five new members were inducted from grades 9 through 12. To be eligible for membership, a student must maintain a grade point average of at least 3.3. Judge Walter Lytten, a graduate of Glenwood, was the guest speaker. The Glenwood Chorus also performed two selections. A reception was held in the home economics room afterwards for new inductees, parents, and guests.

Judge Lytten speaks to the students of Glenwood High School.

Seniors Kelli Jenkins, Nancy Clark, Todd Loper, and Judge Lytten watch the induction begin.

As the fall sports season began, no one knew what was in store for Glenwood High School. The soccer team has an outstanding season, with a record of 15-1-1. The team was eliminated from the sectional tournament in the semi-finals round with a loss to Albany Alexander.

The volleyball team made history at Glenwood, by advancing to the Regionals Tournament. To become sectional champs, the Lady Tigers clawed the Clay Panthers. In the District tournament, the team faced fellow S.O.C. rival Green. After defeating Green, the Lady Tigers faced Miller. The Lady Tigers celebrated all night and practiced all day for the next week. They met their match when they played Adena in the first round of the Regional tournament. For G.H.S., we found it sweet to be one of sixteen.

As basketball season came, the spirits were rising. The boys team had an impressive season with a record of 17-6 with only 3 league loses, the Tigers achieved 2nd in the S.O.C. in Division I.

The girls basketball team has also had a fine year. They have compiled a record of 13-5. With a win over Clay, the Tigers own the sectional crown. Our athletes are ready as spring approaches, the bats come out, as well as the running shoes. We hope that spring brings as much success as fall and winter have left behind.

As you can see, the 1990-91 sports seasons at G.H.S. were a great year. With the seniors leaving and the eighth graders to begin high school, it will never be like this again.

ABOUT J.V....

Deanna Potts a member of the reserve volleyball team was given the following questions and asked to respond. "How do you feel about your year as a reserve player?" Her response was that "Coach Burnside's constant drilling showed during our season. I feel we had a good season." Her response to the question "How do you feel playing for J.V. helped you prepare for varsity?", was "By playing this year as a starter, I think that next year I won't be quite as nervous."

Angie Montgomery concentrates on a bump.

Walking into the gym on the first day of volleyball practice and finding Coach Burnside would be intimidating for a senior, let alone a freshman. Coach Burnside worked with the junior varsity squad all summer to improve their skills to get them ready for competitive volleyball. Being on the reserve squad does have disadvantages, but it really does prepare you for the varsity squad.

The junior varsity squad had practice separate from the varsity squad so that they could have individualized attention. Some members of the squad went to camp along with the varsity squad to improve their skills. They spent a fun-filled week of volleyball on the campus of Rio Grande. Many memories were made, but lots of knowledge was gained. The New Boston squad has players with talent and a coach that will bring it out, no matter what it takes. When the junior varsity becomes varsity — watch out Scioto County!

LADY TIGERS SPIKE IT RICH . . .

What a way for the seniors to end their volleyball career! At first it was hard to believe, but the Lady Tigers were going to make history by being the first team in the history of New Boston volleyball to advance to the regional tournament.

The Lady Tigers worked all summer which proved to be worthwhile as the celebration began. As they celebrated the victories the word fartlick seemed to sound just fine.

Push ups, sit ups, wall jumps all were much appreciated as the words "District Champs" echoed through the gymnasium.

The Lady Tigers had a successful regular season. They finished with a 13-4 record. With the talent coming up from the junior varsity squad, the volleyball team has a bright future. Hopefully next year they can be state champs.

Another S.O.C. itle

6th In State

Another great season, plus a state ranking; who could ask for more. The Tiger Boosters had to work hard to achieve their success. Practice everyday, all the running, and keeping up with schoolwork, the Tigers deserved to be commended for their accomplishments.

The Tigers were ranked 6th in the state polls. This was quite an honor for the Tiger Boosters. This was a first for the Tigers. The Tigers also added another S.O.C. title to the ones they had already received. Naturally it takes a great team to win, but it takes good coaches as well. Coach Mark Spears and Asst. Coach David Teurs were also very proud of the team's efforts. Coach Spears was named All S.O.C. Coach. The Tiger Boosters were very impressive in their season and will be in years to come.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

For the second consecutive year the Tigers played in the Convo. The Tigers defeated Clay and Manchester to claim the sectional title in Waverly. The Tigers then advanced to Athens to play Green whose only defeat was from our "fast-breaking" team. The Tigers came up four (pionts) short of a victory. Overall the Tigers had a great season. Their final record was 17-6. Also they finished second in the Southern Ohio Conference. The team is losing four seniors, but that won't stop the Tigers.

Josh Howard, a senior, dribbles around St. Joe's guard. The Tigers won 105-75.

LADY TIGERS

The Lady Tigers had an excellent season this year. It took a lot of hard work and dedication but they sweated it out and it paid off. Conditioning started in November with running steps, jumping ropes and drill after drill.

Coach Piquet knew if he pushed the girls hard enough they would come out on top. He was right, sure enough, the girls finished third in the S.O.C. and were named sectional champs. They then became district semi-finalist.

There were four seniors this year that put their hearts into every game during the season. They finished out with a 15-7 record whereas last year it was 6-15.

Sabrina Fitch was picked first S.O.C. and all district honorable mention. Angie Henson received second S.O.C.. Michelle Conn got second team S.O.C..

Todd Loper Becomes The All-Time Scorer Of G.H.S.

When Todd Loper began his basketball career, he never dreamed that he would set the records. And set the records he has done. Todd set the all time scoring record on the evening of Friday, January 11, 1991. Todd scored 26 points as the Tigers romped the Notre Dame Titans. The game stopped when Todd scored point 1381. Don Burton held the record of 1380, which he set in 1954. Todd was presented a plaque and the game ball, in turn he presented them to his number one fans — his parents.

A post-game celebration was held in Todd's honor. He cut down the nets for another way to commemorate this special night. All of the young, pee-wee age, basketball junkies got the autograph of their high school hero.

One day, in many years, no doubt, Todd may return to the Tiger Den to witness his record being broken, but it may stand eternally. Most high school players do not score 1,000 points, however, Todd ends his high school career with 1698 which is a real accomplishment.

Todd likes "to make the game more exciting", so he passes off to his teammates whenever possible. Todd would "rather hear the crowd cheer when (he) makes a great pass than when (he does) a lay-up." Todd is famous for his no-look passes. The Tiger fans roar when he passes behind his back or between his legs for an easy two by one of his teammates.

He broke the record of (assist) (in all four years), also. The record was approximately 300. Todd holds the new record of 640 in four years of high school basketball. He also holds the record for the most (assist) in one game, which is 17. Todd set, yet one more record, more (assist) in one season — 197. He set this record his senior year when he was also the leading scorer of the team averaging 25 points a game.

Todd will graduate in May as valedictorian of his class. He plans to major in plastics engineering at Shawnee University. This summer will be filled with lots of hard work, as he will continue his basketball career at college level.

Todd is shown as a young Tiger cub already involved with basketball.

Todd is all smiles as he celebrates his night.

Finally, we've made it to the high school, well, junior high; but it's a step forward. Seventh graders face big changes from the routine of elementary school. No more recess but instead it's time for a more strenuous schedule, from one class room and teacher all day, to seven different classes. Eighth graders are patiently waiting to become official high school students, freshman. Just one more year, we'll they make it? Junior high students participate in many sports and activities such as basketball and cheerleading. This proves to be good training for the day they will become official senior high TIGERS.

(JR. HIGH CHEERLEADERS)

The 1990-91 junior high cheerleaders consisted of eight girls. Wendy Glenn, (captain), Carrie Bishop, (co-captain), and Rachel Fetty were the returning eighth grade cheerleaders. The five new seventh grade girls were Angie Carr, Jamie Neal, Danielle Gartin, Bobby Morrow, and Nicole Fannin.

The cheerleaders attended an Ameri-Cheer camp in Coal Grove for two days and received excellent rating ribbons for both days.

The girls worked very hard during practices and the result was their outstanding performance during the ball games. In addition floor cheers and sidelines, they also performed two dance routines to "U Can't Touch This" and "Spin Me Around." The cheerleader's sponsor, Carla Nelson, received numerous compliments on the squad and felt the season was very successful.

We're Back, attack!

... Really sock it to 'em.

Practice makes perfect.
