SENIORS

As the senior year draws to a close a strange and fearful realization plagues you. You no longer have the privilege of looking forward to the next school year as being another step towards freedom. You have arrived. Hopefully, you are an adult, and, of course, you are free. But do you really appreciate it once it is upon you? Are you scared? You will be on your own. This in itself is frightening. Upon reminiscing about your friendships and youthful adventures. You are no longer filled with the gusto of finally graduating. Being brave at this point is sometimes hard, but keeping in mind that you now have a chance to work for your dreams, and you always have your memories. It is not an end — looking forward to and living your future should be viewed as a challenge.
