PREFACE.

The publishers herewith submit their second issue of the Portsmouth City Directory. The information contained in this volume has been carefully collected and from the system used, the result of long years of experience, the publishers are confident that a degree of accuracy heretofore unattained, has been reached.

The United States census report of the population of Portsmouth for 1910 not being obtainable, a comparison with directory estimate cannot be made. While this will fall considerably below the directory estimate, sufficient allowance is to be made for the additional territory embraced in the directory estimate.

The canvass for the information contained in the Directory is not confined to the corporate limits of the city, but includes all the adjacent surrounding territory.

This issue of the Directory contains 14,736 individual names. Using the multiple of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to allow for names of women and children not represented in its columns, the population is estimated at 35,840.

While this may not agree with the United States census just taken, it must be remembered that the directory canvass is more thorough and made by trained men, and is not confined to the city limits proper, but includes all the immediate suburbs, which are practically part of the city.

Then there are the hundreds of people living in out-of-the-way places and a considerable population, which must be sought for by the means which experience has suggested to the publishers and which does not come under the purview of the United States census.

Therefore, without casting any reflection on the United States census, the estimated population, as shown by the local directory, should be larger than the population shown by the government census.

The publishers desire to extend their thanks to the business men of the city for the patronage which makes the directory a possibility and to the public in general for their co-operation in giving the canvassers and name-takers the necessary information.

Respectfully,

R. L. POLK & Co.
